BERLIN, Nov. 5 (British Admiralty per wireless press) .- Crossing considered in any form, but that there is a strong spirit of discentent of the Tagliamento River on the Italian front is announced in the following report of the War Office:

"German and Austro-Hungarian divisions have gained the crossing on the middle Tagliamento and are advancing westward.

"From the Italian brigades defeated in this engagement more than 6,000 prisoners and a number of guns have been taken."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 .- Armed forces under the American flag have had their first clash with German soldiers in an attack which the Germans made on first line trenches where the United States troops had been taken for instruction. Three Americans were killed, five wounded and twelve captured or missing.

The War Department made this known to-day on receipt of a despatch from Gen. Pershing, showing that the German forces, soon after learning the position of the Americans, had launched a desperate effort to overcome them. The report shows the Americans are facing troops commanded by the German Crown Prince.

The official statement issued by the War Department follows

The War Department has received a despatch from Commanding General of the American Expeditionary for which stated that before daylight, Nov. 3, a salient occupied instruction by a company of American Infantry was raided

The enemy put down a heavy barrage fire, cutting off the salient from the rest of the men. Our losses were three killed, five wounded and twelve captured or missing.

The enemy's loss is not known. One wounded German was taken prisoner. It is believed by army officers that the American troops were trapped in their dugouts and forced to surrender or be blown to pieces with hand grenades without a chance for their lives. No explanation of the eight casualties reported and the twelve men taken prisoners was received. The fact that one wounded German was captured indicated that the trench had been reoccupied by the American

Whether the men killed and wounded received their injuries in hand to hand fighting with the raiding German infantrymen or were struck down by shrapnel is not known. A single shell, scoring a direct hit in the trench, might have caused all the casualties.

That would not explain the surrender of the remaining twelve. Under Of the twelve American soldiers anything short of positive orders; the reported captured or missing in the twelve would have been expected to German trench raid, one is a resident offer despite resistance to the Gerto Jump into the trench and there one wounded German left behind when the raiders retired.

It has been customary for French, British or German raids to be carried out with an intense barrage fire used to isolate the small sector of the enemy lines which it was planned to invade.
